Description of Variables

School name: Name of school

Total enrolment: Total enrolment in that school in 2008/9.

of students: Total enrolment in that grade over the school years 2006/7, 2007/8 and 2008/9, as measured by the number of students who can (regardless of whether they actually do) write the language arts exam.

Actual %: The percentage of all students who achieved the standard of excellence. In grade 3, the result is averaged over the language and mathematics tests. In grades 6 and 9, the result is averaged over the language, mathematics and science tests.

Predicted %: The percentage of all students who are predicted to achieve the standard of excellence based a statistical model of the relationship between socio-economic variables and school achievement across all Alberta schools. See the e-brief's online Appendix for more details on the statistical model.

Difference: The difference between a school's actual % and predicted % (the two previous columns).

Percentile: The percentile is the measure that evaluates schools taking into account the socio-economic environment from which they draw their students. It is calculated in several steps. First, the census-based socio-economic variables are used to calculate the school's predicted pass rate (predicted %). This is the pass rate that a given school would be expected to attain given the performance of other schools in similar socio-economic environments. Second, the predicted pass rate is subtracted from the actual pass rate (difference). This difference is positive if the school performs better than predicted and negative if the school performs worse than predicted. Finally, the positive or negative differences are expressed as percentiles. A percentile value of 90 indicates that this school's score is higher than 90 percent of other schools with comparable social and economic characteristics. A value of 10 indicates that this school's score is better than only 10 percent of other schools with similar socio-economic environments, or, equivalently, that 90 percent of schools with comparable social and economic characteristics score better than this school.

This is a performance measure fully adjusted for observable social and economic characteristics and variation in the average score on assessments. Percentiles go from 0 to 100. Schools that score exactly as predicted get a percentile of 50.

While a school's percentile is a better indicator of its capacity to add value through teaching because it takes into account the socioeconomic pool from which the school's students are drawn, it is not a perfect substitute for the absolute performance measure, the actual percentage of students who achieved the standard of excellence (actual %). Both measures carry important information and should interest parents. A school with a high percentile measure, meaning that it does well given the socioeconomic conditions in which it operates may at the same time exhibit poor performance on the absolute measure, that is, have a low percentage of students who achieve the standard of excellence. Correspondingly, a school that performs poorly according to the percentile indicator, meaning that it should do better given its socioeconomic environment, can have a high percentage of students who achieve the standard of excellence.

A note on missing values for some schools:

Most schools have three sets of numbers, one for grade 3, one for grade 6 and one for grade 9. Blank entries mean that the school lacks either a grade 3, a grade 6 or a grade 9 or that fewer than 45 of the school's students wrote a grade 3, 6 or 9 achievement test over the three study years, and so that grade at that school was not included in the comparisons.

The schools are organized by school authority in alphabetical order and then by school name in alphabetical order within each school authority.
